PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Kathleen Kieran, MD

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

We are delighted to welcome you to the Society for Women in Urology 9th Annual Clinical Mentoring Conference, at the Hilton New Orleans

Riverside. This year's meeting promises to provide up-to-date education for general and subspecialist urologists, and continues this meeting's tradition of promoting interaction among attendees at all levels to promote collegiality, knowledge sharing, and mentorship.

This year's keynote speaker is Dr. Emily Nagoski PhD. She is the award-winning author of the New York Times bestseller, Come As You Are: the surprising new science that will transform your sex life. She began her work as a sex educator at the University of Delaware, where she volunteered as a peer sex educator, while she studied psychology with minors in cognitive science and philosophy. She went on to earn a MS in Counseling and a PhD in Health Behavior, both from Indiana University, with clinical and research training at the Kinsey Institute for Research in Sex, Gender, and Reproduction. After eight years working at Smith College, Emily is now working on her second book about women's overall wellbeing. It's called Burnout.

The Annual Clinical Mentoring Conference has grown dramatically since its inception in 2012. The 2019 meeting included 122 women urologists, of whom 57 were residents or fellows in training. Although the meeting has grown larger in attendance, I am happy to say that it never feels "too big;" the relaxed environment and intimate settings have helped to foster an environment of openness and interaction among urologists of diverse age, geography, specialty, and experience.

Our deliberate focus on residents and fellows sets this meeting apart from others.

As in years past, we will host a "Speed Mentoring" session in which junior faculty, residents, and fellows can seek advice from more established mentors. We will also continue to highlight resident and fellow research through podium and poster presentations. This year's meeting will also offer a cadaver lab on Saturday morning, concurrent with a panel on research featuring federally-funded women urologists.

Pottery is the traditional gift for a ninth anniversary. The flexibility of pottery and the ability to individually craft durable products from a common starting point echoes the fundamental goals of this meeting.

Come, join us, and take away what you find most important for your practice and yourself.

Winter Meeting Keynote Speaker:

Emily Nagoski PhD

Emily Nagoski PhD

Emily Nagoski is the award-winning author of the New York Times bestseller Come As You Are: the surprising new science that will transform your sex life, The Come As You Are Workbook, and co-author with her sister Amelia, of Burnout: the secret to unlocking the stress cycle. A gifted and engaging speaker, she is an expert on women's sexual wellbeing, healthy relationships, and the prevention of sexual violence and harassment. She has a PhD in Health Behavior with a minor in Human Sexuality from Indiana University, and a MS in Counseling, also from IU, including a clinical internship at the Kinsey Institute Sexual Health Clinic. She has been a sex educator for twenty years and currently works as the inaugural Director of Wellness Education at Smith College.

Dr. Nagoski will be speaking on the topic of "Come as You Are" and we are all looking forward to this engaging and relevant topic to all of us both professionally and personally.

Committee for Young Urologists

By: Jenna Dickman, MD

Jenna Dickman, MD

We would like to officially announce SWIU's newest committee: The Committee for Young Urologists. The purpose of this group is to promote a culture of support for female residents and fellows looking to further advance their career and education. We hope to be able to provide an avenue for female trainees to connect with both each other and the more established SWIU members to foster advancement.

Within this committee, we aim to create mentorships to help assist in fellowship discussions and career advice as residents transition from trainee to practicing Urologists. We also hope to connect trainees interested in research with available mentors outside their home institution.

We would like to have a strong focus on promoting education and connecting young Urologists together for board study groups or in-service review. An additional goal would be to provide grand rounds lecture ideas and assistance for those in training looking for additional guidance.

Again, like the goal of SWIU, this committee is dedicated to the support and advancement of female Urologists. We will just be more focused on the areas specific to those still in training. Stay tuned for more updates and opportunities!

SWIU 2020 Outstanding Resident Award Recipient

Dr. Julie Cheng

The SWIU Board of Directors is excited to announce that Dr. Julie Cheng from Loma Linda University will receive the 2020 Outstanding Resident Award during the President's Banquet at the 9th Annual Clinical Mentoring Conference on January 17 in New Orleans.

The Outstanding Resident Award honors women residents who fulfill the mission of SWIU – to advance the career development and professional success of women urologists – and who have been mentors, teachers, sponsors or coaches for other residents and students of all genders.

We congratulate Dr. Cheng on her impact on colleagues and medical students in their clinical, academic, and professional development.

The SWIU Board has changed the timing of the Outstanding Resident award to identify the recipient in the winter months and present the award at the SWIU @ the AUA Annual Meeting in May. To maintain momentum, the next Outstanding Resident Award recipient will be announced at the annual meeting on May 17, 2020.
